Be a Leader Follow the Leader

Take Direction and Learn

Wow. Another one that seems like I'm suggesting you do two opposite things. But I'm not. You can be a leader and follow the leader at the same time — here's how.

When your coach or your mom or your teacher gives you advice, stop and listen carefully, and then you can decide how to apply that advice. You'll set an example for others.

Like when your mom tells you not to smoke and someone offers you a cigarette. You take that advice and say "No." Then you become a leader by saying no. You allow others to do the right thing by your example.
